

Lecture 15

Exam

Part I

Textbook(20 points)

Hedging Language (Lesson 3)

Hedging

What is hedging

An expression used to allow for additional possibilities or to avoid over precise commitment.
(often, usually)

Why use hedging language

Present the true state of the writer's understanding and may be used to negotiate an accurate representation of the state of the knowledge under discussion.

Render the statement less vulnerable to opposition.

Appear humble.

Related representation

Introductory verbs

tend to/assume/indicate/estimate/seem to/appear to be/doubt/believe/suggest

Adverbs

probably/possibly/seemingly/apparently/perhaps/maybe/presumably/conceivably

Modal Verbs

may/might/can/could

Adjectives

probable/possible/likely/doubtful/unlikely/uncertain

Nouns

probability/possibility/likelihood/assumption/tendency/indication/estimate/evidence/claim

Other Phrases

sometimes/often/generally/commonly/frequently/approximately/somewhat

It is generally agreed that/In our opinion/In our view

if true/if anything

Cohesion and Coherence (Lesson 14)(For exam)

rearrangement, blank after textbook

What is cohesion and coherence

cohesion:

the degree to which sentences or paragraphs are connected so that the flow of ideas is easy to follow(at the language level)

coherence:

the overall understandability of what we write or say.(at the logic level)

For Cohesion

Grammatical

- reference:
determiners, pronouns, comparative words
- substitution:
elements using the ones, the same, so, no, do/does/did, etc.
- ellipsis
omission of words
- conjunction
the use of transitional words or phrases that link sentences and paragraphs smoothly.

Lexical

- Reiteration
words families, synonyms and antonyms
hyponyms and superordinate
- collocation
lexical chains

Rhetorical

- parallelism

For Coherence

Follow a certain kind of logical sequence and systematic organizational ideas.

- logical sequence
 - chronological order
 - spatial order
 - order of importance
 - general to specific
 - statement to example
 - problem to solution
 - question to answer

Activity I Part II P 194

1. because
2. but
3. In fact
4. Instead(different to former)
5. Indeed(identical to former)
6. For this reason
7. The fact that
8. especially
9. needless to say

10. because

Need to reading and to judge.

Activity III P 196

4 2 5 1 6 3

Part II

Reading(40 points)

Two passages, one CET 4 and one IELTS

Part III

Writing(40 points)

Choose from 3-4 topics(From textbook)

Overview of Expository Writing

The differences among narrative, expository and argumentative Writing

Patterns of developing an exposition:

- process analysis
- exemplification
- classification and division
- cause and effect
- comparison and contrast
- definition

Overview of Argumentative Writing

Basic concepts and five assumptions

Structure and elements of argumentative writing

How to make a good claim

Topics for argumentation

- Human beings and nature(cars and temperature)
- The purpose of education(senior exam/happy education)
- Crime and Justice
- Tradition and Modernization
- Technological and innovation and human progress
- Gender inequality
- War and peace